DAVE JHARED G. PADUADA
BSCpE - IV - GF

1. Accessibility - refers to the degree to which a company's facilities, products, or services are available to and usable by as many people as possible, including those with disabilities. It's about ensuring ease of access and use for a wide range of individuals.

Advisor - An advisor is a professional who provides expert guidance and consultation in a specific area of business, such as finance, management, or risk. They help clients make informed decisions and improve business performance.

Advocacy - Advocacy in business is the act of company or its representatives influencing public policy, laws, and regulations to benefit their industry or business sector. This can involve lobbying government officials or participating in trade associations.

Analyst - An analyst is someone who processes, interprets, and documents data to help a business improve efficiency and make better decisions. A business analyst, for example, focuses on understanding business processes and identifying areas fro for improvement.

Autodidactic - describes someone who is self-taught. In business context, it refers to an individual who takes the initiative to acquire skills and knowledge on their own, outside of a formal educational setting.

B2B (Business to Business - B2B refers to the commercial transactions and trade that occur between two business. A company operating in a B2B model sell it's products or services to other businesses rather than to individual consumers.

B2C (Business to Consumer) - B2C refers to the commercial transactions and activities where a business sell its products or services directly to individual consumers. This is the most common form of retail.

Behavioral Segmentation - is a marketing strategy that divides a market into groups based on consumer behavior, such as their purchasing habits, brand interactions, and interests. It helps businesses target their marketing efforts more effectively.

Brand Awareness - is the extent to which consumers can recognize or recall a brand. It's a key component of brand knowledge and is often a primary goal in early-stage marketing campaigns.

Brand Equity - is the financial & social value of a well-known brand name. A brand with high equity can generate more revenue and command higher prices due to consumer recognition and the positive perceptions associated with it.

Brand Identity - is the set of visible & non-visible elements that a company creates to portray the right image of itself to consumers. This includes the logo, colors, and typography, but also the brand's voice, tone and overall personality.

Brand Loyalty - is a consumer's dedication to consistently purchasing a specific brand's products or services over competitors, regardless of price or convenience. It is often driven by a strong, positive feeling toward the brand.

Brand Perception - is what consumers believe a brand represents, based on their experiences & interactions with it. It is formed by a combination of the company's messaging and the consumer's personal judgements and word-of-mouth recommendations.

Brand Promise - is the value or experience that a company's customers can consistently expect from a brand. It is a fundamental statement of what the brands stands for and what it will deliver.

Brand Strategy - is a long term plan to achieve a series of goals that ultimately result in a consumer's preference for your brand over others. It is the roadmap for how a brand will be perceived and how it will grow.

Branding - is the comprehensive process of creating and cultivating a unique brand identity in the minds of consumers. It involves all the activities a company undertakes to shape its brand and distinguish it from competitors.

Business Goals - are predetermined targets that a business aims to achieve within a specific timeframe. They can range from high-level, long-term aspirations like increasing market share, to specific, measurable actions like boosting sales by a certain percentage.

Business Image - is the overall impression and perception people have of a business. This is shaped by variety of factors, including its reputation, promotional activities, and how it interacts with the public.

Business Knowledge - is the collective sum of skills, experiences, and insights a business has acquired. It is a valuable strategic asset that affects all of the company's activities.

Business Model Canvas - is a strategic management tool for developing and documenting new or existing business models. Its a template that provides a visual chart with elements that describe a firm's value proposition, customer segments, channel, and revenue streams.

Business Models - are the blueprints for how a company creates, delivers, and captures value. They explain how a company makes money by detailing its key activities, resources and customer relationships. For example, a subscription service like Netflix uses a business model where customers pay a recurring fee for access to content.

Business Value - is a broad term referring to all forms of value that determine the health & well-being of a firm in the long run. It isn't just about monetary profit; it includes tangible elements like revenue and shareholder value as well as intangible aspects like brand reputation, customer satisfaction, & employee morale.

Business Venture - is a new business or a new project undertaken by an existing business, often characterized by some level of financial risk. The term is often used to describe startups and entrepreneurial undertakings.

Buyer - is an individual or organization that purchases a product or service. In B2B contexts, a buyer might be a purchasing manager, while B2C contexts, it's the end consumer.

Buying Patterns - are the regular, predictable ways in w/c customers purchase products or services. This includes when they buy, how frequently, in what quantities, and through which channels. Understanding these patterns help businesses optimize inventory and marketing efforts.

C2BC Customer to Business) - refers to a type of transaction where a customer provides value back to a business. This can include a consumer writing a review, providing an online testimonial, or even selling services to a business. A freelance designer offering services to a company is an example of C2B transaction.

C2C (Costumer to Customer) - refers to transactions where customers trade or sell products or services directly to other customers. Online marketplaces like eBay and Craiglist are prime exaples of platforms that facilitate C2C commerce.

Cash Flow - is the movement of money in and out of a business. Positive cash flows occurs when more money enters the business than leaves, while negative cash flow means the business is spending more than it is taking in. Managing cash flow is essential for a company's survival and growth.

Change Management - is a structured approach for ensuring that changes in a business are implemented smoothly and successfully. It focuses on the people side of change, helping employees understand, accept, and commit to a new processes or business goals.

Communication - is the process of conveying information, ideas, and messages between individuals or groups. Effective communication is critical for everything for internal operations & team collaboration to external marketing and customer relations.

Communication Strategy - is a plan for how a business will communicate with its internal and external stakeholders. It outlines the key messages, target audiences, and channels to be used to achieve specific business objectives.

Competitive Advantage - is a favorable position a business achieves by offering a unique and superior value to its customers, making it difficult for competitors to imitate. This can be based on things like lower cost, superior product quality, or excellent customer service.

Competitive Edge - refers to special qualities, tools, resources, and benefits your company brings to the marketplace. Your competitive edge is what brings your customers to you rather than to another business.

Competitive Landscape - a detailed overview of a market that includes identifying and analyzing direct & indirect competitors, their strengths and weaknesses, and overall market environment to understand the competitive forces at play.

Competitive Positioning - is a marketing strategy that involves defining & communicating a brand's unique value to stand out from competitors and gain a favorable position in the market.

Competitor Analysis - is a strategic process of researching, identifying, & evaluating your direct & indirect competitors to understand their strenghts, weaknesses, and strategies.

Confidence - refers to the forward-looking belief and trust that individuals, firms & consumers have in their financial positions, future economic conditions, and the likelihood of favorable outcomes from decisions.

Consumer - is the end-user of a product or service who uses it for personal, household, or similar needs, rather than for commercial or business purposes. They are the end-users in the B2C model.

Consumer Behavior - is the study of how individuals and groups select, buy, use, and dispose of goods, services, ideas, or experiences to satisfy their needs or wants. Understanding it helps businesses tailor their products & marketing.

Consumer Trend - is a sustained pattern of change in consumer behavior, preferences, needs, or attitudes that reflects broader societal, economic or technological shifts, influencing how people buy and use products and services.

Core Values - are the fundamental beliefs and guiding principles that define a company's culture, dictate its behavior, and (its) influence its decision-making process.

Cost-Oriented Customer - is a consumer whose primary motivation for purchasing is to get the lowest possible price. This type of customer is highly sensitive to price changes and is a key target for businesses that compete on cost.

Critical Thinking - involves analyzing information objectively to form a reasoned judgment. It is a vital skill for problem-solving, decision-making, and evaluating business strategies.

Customer - is a person or organization that purchases goods or services from a businesses. This term is often used interchangeably with "buyer", "client", or "consumer", though "customer" can also refer to a business in a B2B context.

Customer Benefits - is the specific value, advantage, or positive outcome that a customer receives from using a product or service, fulfilling their needs and solving their problems.

Customer Expectations - are the set of behaviors, experiences, and standards that customers anticipate from a company's products, services, and interactions.

Customer Experience - is the sum total of all interactions and touchpoints a customer has with a company, from the first time they see an advertisement to post-purchase support. It's a holistic view of the customer's journey.

Customer Feedback - is the information, opinions, and insights provided by customers about a company's products, services, or support. It's an invaluable tool for identifying areas for improvement & driving innovation.

Customer Focus - is an approach or strategy in business that prioritizes customer's needs, expectations, and satisfaction above all else. It involves understanding and addressing customer preferences, providing excellent customer service, & consistently delivering customer value.

Customer Insights - are deep, actionable understandings about consumer behavior and motivations. They are gained from analyzing customer data and feedback and are used to ~~(perform)~~ inform business strategy and product development.

Customer Journey - is the complete sum of experiences that a customer goes through when interacting with your company and brand. Instead of looking at just a part of a transaction or a single ~~transaction~~ interaction, the customer journey maps the entire process, from initial awareness to post-purchase support.

Customer Needs - are the motivations and desires that prompt a purchase a product or service. These can be functional or emotional, or social. Understanding and fulfilling these needs through products, services, and interactions is crucial for a business to create value, build loyalty, and achieve profitability.

Customer Onboarding - is the initial process of guiding new customers to successfully understand and integrate a product or service into their routines.

Customer Orientation - is a strategic approach that prioritizes understanding and meeting customer needs and desires above the business's own needs.

Customer Pain Points - is a specific challenge, frustration, or unmet need that a customer experiences when interacting with a product, service, or brand.

Customer Preferences - are the subjective likes, dislikes, motivations, and expectations that shape purchasing decisions for products and services.

Customer Relationships - is the overall connection and series of interactions between a company & its customers, encompassing all touchpoints from initial purchase to ongoing support and loyalty-building efforts.

Customer Retention - is a company's ability to keep existing customers engaged and loyal overtime, encouraging them to repeat purchases and continue using their products or services rather than switching to a competitor.

Customer Satisfaction - is the measurement of how well a company's products, services, and overall experience meet or exceed a customer's needs and expectations.

Customer Segments - is the practice of dividing a customer base into groups of individuals that have similar characteristics relevant to marketing, such as age, gender, interests & spending habit.

Customer Support - refers to the services a business provides to help customers with their inquiries, problems, or product-related issues. It can be offered through various channels, such as phone, email, or live chat.

Customer Trust - is a consumer's belief in a company's integrity and ability to deliver on it's promises. It is a fundamental element of any long-term customer relationship.

Customer Value - is the perception of a product or service's worth to a customer versus the possible alternatives. It's the ratio of a product's benefits to it's costs.

Customer Centric Approach - is a business strategy that puts the customer at the center of all business decisions. This philosophy aims to build positive customer experiences throughout the entire customer journey.

Data Analysis - Is the process of systematically inspecting, cleaning, transforming, and modeling data to discover useful information, patterns, and trends, ultimately leading to actionable insights that inform strategic decisions, improve operations, increase revenue, and solve problems.

Dedication - in business is the commitment of time, energy, and effort to achieving a goal or performing a task. It's a key trait for success and is often required from both employees and business leaders.

Demand Forecasting - is the process of predicting future customer demand for products or services. Businesses use this to make informed decisions about inventory management, production, and financial planning.

Demographics - are the statistical data relating to the population & particular groups within it. In business, this data is used to segment markets & targets advertising.

Different Strategy - is a unique approach a business takes to set itself apart from its competitors. This could involve using a new technology, targeting a niche market, or offering a completely new kind of service.

Digital Media - refers to all electronic forms of communication and content. It's a key channel for modern business marketing and includes everything from websites and social media to mobile apps & email.

Discount Customer - is a consumer whose primary motivation for a purchase is a low price. They are often highly sensitive to promotions & discounts and are willing to switch brands to get the best deal.

Distribution Channels - are the paths a product or service takes from the producer to the consumer. This can include direct sales, wholesalers, retailers, or online marketplaces.

Economic Factors - are the broad, macroeconomic forces that affect business's operations and decisions. These include things like inflation, interest rates, and employment levels.

Economic Sense - means that a business decision is logical and profitable when viewed from a financial perspective. It implies that the benefits of an action outweigh it's costs.

Emerging Markets - are nations with economies that are in the process of rapid growth and industrialization. These markets offers significant opportunities for business seeking expansion, but they also come with unique challenges.

Emotional Connection - is the deep bond and positive feelings such as trust and loyalty, that customers feel toward a brand or company, transcending mere transactional relationships.

Engagement - in business refers to a customer's active involvement with a brand, such as through social media likes and shares, comments, and participation in online communities. It is a key metric for measuring brand health.

Entrepreneur - is an individual who creates a new business, bearing most of the risks and enjoying most of the rewards. The entrepreneur is commonly seen as an innovator and a source of new ideas.

Entrepreneurship - is the process of designing, launching, and running a new business. It is a key driver of economic growth and innovation.

Environmental Factors - are the external, non-market influences that can impact a business. These include things like climate change, sustainability regulations, and public awareness of environmental issues.

Expenses - are the cost incurred in the process of generating revenue. They can be fixed or variable.

Expertise - is the specialized knowledge and skills required to perform a task. In business, it can be a source of competitive advantage.

Financial Risk - is the possibility of losing money on an investment or business venture. It is a key consideration for entrepreneurs & investors alike.

Fireball - is a slang term often used to describe a fast-growing & highly successful venture or idea.

Geographic Segmentation - is a marketing strategy that divides a market into different segments based on location, such as country, region, city, or even climate, to tailor products and messages to local needs and preferences.

Gratitude - is a sincere, expressed appreciation for the efforts of people and the support of things that contribute to success, fostering stronger relationships and a positive company culture.

Healer - a person who provides services and support for client's well-being, encompassing physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual health.

Hero - an individual who makes significant sacrifices and does extraordinary work to save a company or project.

Impulse Customer - a buyer who makes spontaneous, unplanned purchases based on an immediate emotional desire or sudden urge, rather than a pre-existing need or shopping list.

Income - is the money received, especially on a regular bases, from work or through investments. It's often used to refer to revenue minus expenses, w/c is known as net income or profit.

Industrial Customer - is a business or organization that purchases goods and services for use in its own production process.

Industry Analysis - is a market assessment tool used by businesses to understand the dynamics and trends of their industry. It helps in identifying opportunities and threats and in formulating a competitive strategy.

Initiative - an initiative is a deliberate, structured plan or project designed to achieve specific, often strategic, goals or objectives.

innovation - is the process of creating and implementing new ideas, products, or processes.

Innovation Adoption - is the process by w/c a new product or idea is accepted by a group of people.

Internal Locus of Control - is the belief that an individual's own actions, efforts, and abilities are the primary determinants of their success or failure in the workplace.

Interpersonal Skills - are the abilities a person uses to communicate and interact effectively with others. These skills, such as active listening and empathy, are essential for team collaboration & customer relations.

Leadership - is the ability of an individual or an organization to guide, influence, and inspire others to achieve a common goal.

Legal Factors - are the laws, regulations, and policies that govern a business can operate. These include everything from labor laws and consumer protection to intellectual property rights.

Listening - is the active process of paying attention to what others are saying, not just hearing them. It is a critical skill for understanding customer needs, resolving conflicts, and improving communication.

Loyalty - refers to the sustained, positive relationship where customers consistently choose one brand over its competitors due to positive experiences, trust and emotional connection, often leading to repeat purchases & advocacy.

Loyalty Programs - is a marketing strategy designed to reward customers for repeat purchases & continued engagement, encouraging them to choose a brand over competitors.

Market Analysis - is the process of assessing a specific industry or market to determine its attractiveness. This includes studying the size, growth rate, trends, and the competitive environment.

Market Demand - is the total quantity of a product or service that all consumers in a market are willing and able to purchase at a given price & time. It's a key factor for a business in deciding what to produce & how much.

Market Differentiation - is the process of making a product or service unique & distinct from it's competitors. This can be achieved through superior quality, unique features, or strong brand identity.

Market Growth - is the increase overall size of a market. It's often measured in terms of sales volume or revenue and is a key indicator for businesses looking to expand.

Market Identification - is the process of pinpointing the target customers for a product or service.

Market Needs - are the requirements or desires of a target audience that a business seeks to fulfill.

Market Opportunities - are favorable conditions in the market that a business can leverage to its advantage. This could be a gap in the market, a change in consumer behavior, or new technology.

Market Penetration - is a marketing strategies used to increase a company's market share. This can be done by lowering prices, increasing advertising, or entering new distribution channels.

Market Position - refers to the consumer's perception of a brand or product relative to it's competitors, established through a strategic marketing effort to create a unique & favorable image.

Market Positioning - is the process of creating a brand's image & identity in the minds of it's target customers. The goal is to make the brand stand out and be memorable.

Market Research - is the process of systematically gathering & analyzing information about a tarket market, including consumer preferences and competitor activities.

Market Risks - are the potential for a losses in a business due to changes in market conditions.

Market Segmentation - is the practice of dividing a target into smaller, more manageable groups w/ similar characteristics, needs, & behaviors. This allows businesses to create more targeted & effective marketing campaigns.

Market Share - is the portion of a total market that a company controls. It is often measured in terms of sales revenue & is a key indicator of a company's market position.

Market Size - is the total number of customers or the total value of sales in a specific market. It helps a business understand the potential growth & revenue.

Market Trends - are the general direction in w/c a market is moving. This include shifts in consumer preferences, technological changes, and new business models.

Marketing - is the process of creating, communicating, & delivering value to customers and for managing customer relationships in ways that benefit the organization & its stakeholders. It encompasses everything from advertising and public relations to sales and customer service.

Marketing Messages - are the core communications that a business uses to convey it's value proposition to its target audience. They should be clear, concise, and compelling.

Marketing Mix - is a set of tools a business uses to achieve it's marketing objectives. It's often defined by the 4Ps: Product, Price, Promotion, and Place.

Marketing Strategy - is a long term plan for how a business will reach it's target audience & achieve and achieve it's marketing goals. It defines the company's value proposition, key marketing messages, & the channels it will use to communicate with customers.

Marketplace - is the environment where buyers & sellers interact and exchange goods & services. It can be a physical location or a digital platform like an e-commerce website.

Mission Statement - is a formal summary of the core purpose and values of a company. It explains what the company does, who it serves, & whats it's overall goals are.

Money Management - is the process of budgeting, saving, and investing to control finances. This includes cash flows, expenses, and investments to ensure financial stability & growth.

Need-based Customer - is a consumer who purchases a product or service to fulfill a specific, often immediate need.

Negotiation - is a strategic discussion that resolves an issue in a way that all parties find acceptable.

New Customer - is an individual or business that has made their first purchase from a company.

Niche Market - is small, specialized segment of a larger market. Businesses that focus on a niche market often have less competition & can develop strong reputation as an expert in their field.

Opportunity Recognition - is the ability to identify & assess potential business ventures.

Optimism - is a mental attitude characterized by hope and confidence in success & a positive future.

Ownership - is the state of having legal title to something. It can refer to an individual's stake in a company or an employee's sense of responsibility & accountability for their work.

Packaging - is the materials used to contain, protect, and present a product.

Passion for Learning - is a strong desire to acquire new knowledge & skills. It is a critical trait for business leaders & employees in a fast-changing world.

Peer Selling - is a sales strategy where a company's existing customers influence & convince new customers to buy a product or service. This often done through testimonials, referrals, & word-of-mouth marketing.

Perceived Value - is the customer's subjective evaluation of a product's or service's worth. It's the total benefit a customer thinks they will receive from the product minus what they think they will have to give up to get it.

Perseverance - is the ability to continue doing something despite difficulty or delay in achieving success.

Personal Characteristics - are the qualities and traits that define an individual's personality. These include things like integrity, leadership, & a strong work ethic.

Personal Interaction - is the face-to-face or one-on-one communication between individuals.

Positioning - is a marketing concept that aims to create a distinctive place for a product or brand in the minds, of the target audience. The goal is to make the brand stand out from the competition.

Potential Customer - is a person or business that has the potential to become a paying customer.

Practical Skills - are the abilities a person needs to perform a job or task in the real world.

Price Sensitivity - is the degree to w/c the price of a product or service affects a customer's purchasing behavior.

Pricing Strategy - is a long-term approach a business uses to determine the optimal price for a product or service.

Problem Solving - is the process of identifying a problem and developing a plan to resolve it.

Product Benefits - are the positive outcomes, advantages, or solutions that a customer gains from using a product or service.

Product Development - is the process of bringing a new product to market. It includes everything from ideation and design to prototyping & testing.

Product Differentiation - is the process of distinguishing a product or service from others to make it more attractive to a particular target market.

Product Features - are the specific attributes of a product, such as it's size, color ingredients, or functions. While features are what a product has, benefits are what a customer gets from those features.

Product Innovation - is the process of creating and launching a new product, or improving an existing one, to better meet customer needs or solve a problem.

Product Performance - is a measure of how well a product functions and delivers on it's promises.

Product Positioning - is the process of creating a unique and desirable place for a product in the minds of the target audience.

Product Market-Fit - is the degree to w/c a product satisfies a strong market demand. It means it has a solid customer base and is effectively solving their problem.

Profit Margins - are a measure of a business's profitability.

Psychographics - is a market segmentation tool that divides a market into groups based on their psychological attributes, such as values, attitudes, interests, & lifestyles.

Referral - is an act where a satisfied customer recommends a product or service to another person.

Relationship Marketing - is a strategy that focuses on building & maintaining long-term, meaningful relationships with customers to foster loyalty. It prioritizes customer retention over short-term sales.

Repeat Purchase - is when a customer buys a product or service more than once.

Resilience - is the ability of a business or individual to withstand & recover from difficult conditions or unexpected changes.

Resource Allocation - is the process of distributing available resources to various projects or business units.

Retention - is a business's ability to keep it's customers or employees over a period of time.

Risk-taking - in business is the willingness to make decisions or pursue ventures that have an uncertain outcome.

Self-esteem - refer's to a person's confidence in their own abilities & worth.

Service Quality - is a measure of a how well a service meets customers expectations. It is evaluated based on factors like reliability, responsiveness, & empathy.

Social Factors - are the social trends, norms, & behaviors that can influence a business's operations.

Social Proof - is a psychological & social phenomenon where people assume the actions of others in an attempt to reflect correct behavior. This is seen in the form of customer reviews testimonials, & endorsements.

Store Experience - is the overall impression a customer has when they visit a physical or online store.

Supplier Relationship - is the connection a business has with its providers of goods & services.

Supply Chain - is the network of organization, people, and activities involved in getting a product from its initial state to final consumer. It includes everything from raw material sourcing to delivery.

SWOT Analysis - is a strategic planning tool used to evaluate the Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, & Threats involved in a project or business venture.

Synergy - is the concept that the combined effect of 2 or more entities is greater than the sum of individual effects.

System Oriented - describes a person or organization that focuses on the processes, structures, & overall systems w/in a business.

Target Audience - is the specific group of people that a marketing campaign is designed to reach.

Target Customers - are the specific individuals or businesses that a company's products or services are aimed at.

Target Market - is the specific group of consumers a company aims to sell its products or services to.

Team Player - is a person who works well as a member of a team or group.

Technological Factors - are the broader technological forces that can impact a business. Like automation, new software, and data management.

Technology Adoption - is the process by w/c a new technology is accepted and used by a target group or market. 2 different stages: from initial innovators to the final regards.

Technology Oriented Customer - is a consumer who is highly receptive to new technologies & is often among the 1st to adopt new gadgets & digital services.

Testimonials - are formal statements or endorsements from satisfied customers that affirm the quality of a product or service. It's a powerful form of social proof.

Touchpoints - are the specific moments or interactions where a customer comes into contact w/ a business's brand, product, or service.

Unique Selling Proposition - is the unique feature or benefit of a product or service that makes it stand out from the competition. It's the core reason why a customer should choose your brand.

User Manual - is a technical communication document that provides instructions & guidance on how to use a product.

Value Chain - is the sequence of activities that a company performs to design, produce, market deliver, and supports it's products.

Value Creation - is the process of generating a value for customers that is greater than the cost of producing the product or service.

Value Delivery - is the process of bringing a product or service to the customer in a way that provides the expected benefits.

Value Exchange - is the act of a customer giving money or another form of value in return for a product or service.

Value Proposition - is a promise of value to be delivered & received by a customer.

Value Proposition Canvas - is a strategic management tool that helps businesses design, test, and build a great value proposition for their customers.

Value Based Pricing - is a pricing strategy where a business sets its prices based on the perceived value of its products or service in the eyes of the customer.

Value Oriented Customer - is a consumer who seeks a balance between quality & price. They are willing to pay more for a product that offers supperrior benefits or value but will not simply buy the cheapest option.

Vision Statement - is a declaration that describes the future a company wants to create. It's an aspirational and long-term statement that guides the company's decisions

Visionary - is a person who has clear, imaginative, and ambitious ideas for the future.

Wandering Customer - is a consumer who has no clear purpose or intent when they browse products or services. They may be open to impulse purchases but are not actively searching for a specific item.

Word of Mouth - is the passing of information, experiences, and opinions between people, especially concerning a business's products or services. It's a powerful & influencial form of marketing.